3. Photographic exhibits A and B illustrate a prototype backhoe loader having on its right side (from the driver's perspective) one side of the tower and boom arm pairs described in the specification and claimed in pending claims 8 and 9.
4. The left side tower and boom arm on the prototype backhoe loader of exhibits A and B were of conventional shape as only one side was needed for prototype testing, the respective other side of the eventual commercial product to be a mirror image thereof.
